

Reducing the formation of acrylamide during the heating of amino compounds

5 Abstract

A process is described for reducing the formation of acrylamide during the heating of amino compounds in the presence of reducing substances, which comprises, before the heating, mixing the amino
10 compounds with ascorbic acid and/or vitamin E.

15

20

25

30

35

40

45